Teaching Development Activities

- 2020 Training Session Participant: Zoom Quick Start
Hosted by St. Thomas E-Learning and Research (STELAR) and Information Technology Services (ITS), March 19.
- Session Participant: Teaching in Trying Times
Hosted by St. Thomas Faculty Development, March 31.

Webinar Participant: How to Communicate with Your Now Online Students

Hosted by St. Thomas Faculty Development, April 9.

Session Participant: CoFlex and HyFlex – What do these mean for the fall?

Hosted by St. Thomas Faculty Development, May 14.

Attendee: Issues Facing Students in the Era of Covid-19

Town Hall hosted by the American Psychological Association, May 20.

Webinar Participant: Making Your Online Courses More Experiential

Hosted by St. Thomas Leadership Academy, May 29.

Training Session Participant: Using Canvas Templates

Hosted by St. Thomas E-Learning and Research (STELAR) and Faculty Development, August 11.

2019 Workshop Participant: Designing Critical Reflection Opportunities for Community-Engaged Students

Hosted by St. Thomas Center for the Common Good, November 19.

2018 Workshop Participant: Online Elements for Face-to-Face Courses

Offered by St. Thomas Faculty Development

Workshop Participant: Intercultural Education

An initiative of the St. Thomas Office of Study Abroad, these two sessions focused on helping study abroad instructors prepare to actively facilitate their students' intercultural education while abroad.

2014 Student in online Introduction to Parapsychology course taught by Dr. Caroline Watt, Koestler Chair of Parapsychology, University of Edinburgh

I participated in this course as part of my preparation for the January 2015 UMAIE study abroad course, "Spooks, Psychics and Skeptics in the UK: Psychological Science Investigates the Paranormal."

2013 Seminar Participant: Mindful Meditation in Teaching

Weeklong summer UST Faculty Development workshop on fostering mindfulness and its applications to the classroom.

2011 Virtual Attendee: Online Workshop on Teaching the History of Psychology

This four-hour workshop sponsored by the Society for the Teaching of Psychology and the Society for the History of Psychology included presentations on teaching inclusive cross-cultural histories of psychology and developing interactive projects for students using new resources and software.

Workshop Participant: Dealing with Plagiarism and Using SafeAssign

UST workshops on how technology increases the risk of plagiarism but can also be used to detect it.

2009 Workshop Participant: Writing Across the Curriculum

This week-long January term workshop helped me to develop a revised syllabus and class activities to make PSYC 205: Psychology of Women a "Writing to Learn" class that will ultimately fulfill a Writing Across the Curriculum general education requirement for UST students.

2008 Panelist: Purple, Grey, and Green- Infusing Sustainability into the UST Curriculum January term

Faculty Development workshop facilitated by Elise Amel in which I shared my experiences teaching Ecopsychology with an imbedded spring break field component.

2003 Workshop Participant: Service-Learning

This workshop helped me to develop a service learning component for ENVR 212. Class formed a community partnership with Clean Water Action to work on the Prairie Island/Xcel Energy nuclear storage issue. Goals were to give students firsthand experience with grassroots environmental activism and a real-life environmental justice issue. Students worked at CWA office and attended a Lobby Day at the state capital that included a rally and meetings with legislators.

2001 Workshop Participant: Psychology of Women Institute

This workshop on teaching the psychology of women and gender was held prior to the annual APA convention in San Francisco, CA.

UST Faculty Partnership with Jed Herman, Mathematics.

In this partnership, sponsored by UST Faculty Development, I tutored Dr. Herman in social psychology and helped him design activities to use with his classes based on principles of social cognition and group dynamics.

1999 Workshop Participant: Integrating Sexuality Issues into the Women's Studies Classroom

This workshop was organized by the Women's Studies program of the Associated Colleges of the Twin Cities and was conducted at Augsburg University.

1998 Workshop Participant: Psychology of Women Institute

This workshop on teaching the psychology of women and gender was held prior to the annual APA convention in San Francisco, CA.

1997 Workshop Participant: Managing Conflict in the Women's Studies Classroom

This workshop was organized by the Women's Studies program of the Associated Colleges of the Twin Cities and was conducted at Hamline University.

Session Participant: Diverse Voices in the Classroom Series

This University of St. Thomas session focused on issues that arise from having students with learning disabilities in the college classroom.

1996 Group Facilitator and Panel Commentator: President's Forum on Teaching

This event was for University of Minnesota faculty interested in improving their working relationships with teaching assistants. I was one of six graduate student teaching assistants selected from across the university to act as co-facilitators of discussion groups. I was one of three graduate students asked to participate in a panel at the luncheon.

1995 Discussion Participant: Pizza with Profs

These University of Minnesota discussion groups dealt with how to engage students in critical thinking and how to use student evaluations of teaching.
